6.		As I understand it, [redacted] was sent to [redacted] for two primary purposes. First, he was to be integrated into the organization in a position or positions which would allow him to comprehend the entire research program of [redacted], with particular emphasis on the Far East. Second, he was to take the opportunity to become an area expert in the Far East, and avail himself of the competencies of [redacted] in this area.
7. 25X1C		During this time, he was also to undertake liaison, as necessary, to keep CIA informed on [redacted] research and meet specific requirements levied on him by DD/I components. The extent or value of this type liaison over and beyond what can be accomplished through [redacted] the [redacted] representative at CIA, is not yet clear. In general, I would agree with paragraph 5 of the attached dispatch, with the caveat that we should not overlook the importance of [redacted] undertaking research on the Far East as a step in the right direction if he is to qualify as an area expert on his return to ORR on a Far East desk. At the present reading, I am of the opinion that the 30 percent figure provided in the subject dispatch seems extremely adequate to undertake general liaison and keeping informed responsibilities, bearing in mind that the DD/I is most concerned in maintaining good relationships with [redacted]. I would discourage too much of the free-wheeling activity, leaving this to [redacted].
